Contents-text/Contenuto-testo:

A Whole Person,Whole Life,Whole System approach to Community Mental Health services and practice will examine the values, principles and actions needed in Changing Thinking, Practice and Systems.

It is based on a historical and International perspective with examples of best practice of how we have been trying to improve the lives of people with mental health issues.

It will set out some of the ways that the IMHCN and partners have been contributing to this change over many years in different places.

We need a big new vision for mental health that has clarity and clear objectives and outcomes. Therefore it is a call for action.
